
TOLD BY THE ELK

Elk vs. Hunter

When the Boots Come Back

The elk know exactly how you hunt.
Now your kid will too.

A story, coloring and activity book for young hunters 7+, by Buck Nicholson

What it is

To us it is the wilderness. To the elk it is home, and they notice everything that does not belong. Sprig, a young bull in his first September, and his herd teach seven elk rules. Every one is a real lesson a young hunter can use this season.

Inside

- 17 full-page coloring scenes, with a hunter to find in each
- 7 Hunter's Field Notes: wind and thermals, bedding and feeding, water, calling, eyes and stillness, pressure
- Track quiz, 2 mazes, word search, dot-to-dot, plan-your-hunt map
- Short chapters made to read aloud with a parent or grandparent

Good for

- Hunter education classes and youth mentor hunts
- RMEF and sportsmen's banquets: youth tables, raffles, door prizes
- Outfitters, archery shops and taxidermists: a counter copy for families
- Gifts for a first season, elk camp, birthdays and Christmas

A note for grown-ups

This book teaches young hunters how elk think. It does not teach them to handle a bow or a rifle. Real hunting starts with a hunter education course and a grown-up who knows the way.

Details

Paperback $14.99
8.5 x 11 in, 54 pages
ISBN 979-8-1774-0039-6

Field Edition Hardcover $26.99
8.25 x 11 in, 80 pages
Adds a 24-page Elk Camp section
ISBN 979-8-1782-1046-8

Ages	7+
Where	Amazon

Scan for the book
bucknicholson.com

Want copies for your group, class or counter?

Tell the person who gave you this sheet, or visit bucknicholson.com.
Vote for the next animal at bucknicholson.com/next